Coldblow Farm

Dating back to at least 1728, this charming, detached and unlisted farmhouse stands as a distinguished example of Kentish rural architecture. A home shaped by centuries, enriched by generations, and most recently elevated by the current owners' thoughtful and thorough renovations. A fully insulated new roof, renovated and redecorated interior, and a thoughtfully designed annexe blend seamlessly with the farmhouse's historic character. The result is a residence of rare balance: period charm preserved with integrity, and modern living introduced with quiet sophistication.

Approached by a lengthy private drive, the 1.4-acre plot gradually reveals itself, framed by mature trees and opening onto an expansive front garden laid to lawn. This sweeping green frontage sets a serene tone, offering both privacy and presence. The drive continues around to the rear, where a sizeable yard provides generous parking for multiple vehicles and effortless access to the main house, annexe, barn, and other outbuildings, as well as a sunny patio with a covered seating area.

The farmhouse unfolds across four floors, including a cellar with two useful storerooms. On the ground floor, the front door opens into a welcoming entrance hall. A brick fireplace with double access multi-fuel burner/stove, beamed ceilings and warm herringbone parquet flooring all flow into the adjacent lounge, a large bright space with access onto the rear patio, extending the living space outdoors. Beyond the updated kitchen includes a breakfast bar, built in cabinets and access through to the breakfast area with further doors to the garden, continuing the effortless flow between interior relaxation and al fresco entertaining. The separate dining room, with its striking tiled floor, offers versatility, complemented by additional worktop space and a utility area with room for laundry appliances plus internal access to the garage. The remainder of the ground floor provides further flexible accommodation, including a generous study that steps up into a triple aspect snug with double doors to the garden and a brick fireplace with multi-fuel burner/stove.

The first floor hosts three bedrooms, including the principal suite, where a spacious dressing area leads to an ensuite shower room and steps up into the bedroom, complete with a wall of built in wardrobes. The second bedroom has been opened to the vaulted ceiling above, creating an impressive, airy space, while the third bedroom offers potential as an additional study. Both are served by a separate shower room. The top floor's fourth bedroom is ideal for guests or a family member seeking independence, complete with its own dressing room/bedroom 5 and access to a sizeable bathroom.

Attached on the ground floor but accessed separately via the rear yard is the recently created annexe, comprising a spacious, well appointed kitchen and living area with bifold doors opening onto a deck overlooking the garden, a bedroom with built in wardrobes, and a modern ensuite shower room. A bank of solar panels on the roof enhances energy efficiency, continuing the harmony of tradition, practicality, and innovation found throughout.

Alongside the annexe are two further storerooms and the garage, while across the rear yard stands the fabulous barn; a vast space with huge potential, including a mezzanine loft. The grounds sweep around the house into a fenced rear garden area, creating a private, secure haven for children or pets, with mature plantings and seating areas enjoying panoramic countryside views beyond.

Seller Insight

“We’ve enjoyed this private and privileged position on the outskirts of Walmer, a sought after area rightly celebrated for its peaceful atmosphere, historic charm, and access to some of Kent’s most picturesque seafronts. Just minutes away lies the Walmer and Deal coastline, offering long promenades, shingle beaches, and panoramic sea views stretching towards the iconic Deal Pier. The area is rich in heritage, with Walmer Castle and Deal Castle providing cultural interest alongside beautifully maintained gardens and scenic walking routes. Whether enjoying a morning stroll along the shore, dining in one of Deal’s acclaimed independent restaurants, or exploring boutique shops and galleries, the surrounding towns offer a vibrant yet relaxed coastal lifestyle within easy reach.

Despite its rural tranquillity, our home is exceptionally well connected. Nearby Deal provides a wide range of amenities including supermarkets, cafés, artisan bakeries, leisure facilities, and a thriving high street. For families, the area offers excellent schooling options, both state and independent, while outdoor enthusiasts benefit from easy access to cycling routes, and miles of countryside and coastal paths. Golfing enthusiasts can enjoy their game at the Kingsdown and Walmer and the Royal Cinque Ports golf clubs and if you want to go slightly further afield there are also the championship courses at Sandwich.

We are also ideally placed for commuting. Walmer station is half a mile away, offering high speed direct rail services to London in under 90 minutes, making the capital comfortably accessible for daily travel. Road links are equally convenient, with the A2 and M2 providing straightforward routes towards Canterbury, Dover, and London. This rare combination of rural seclusion, coastal beauty, and strong transport connections makes the location particularly appealing for those seeking a balanced lifestyle; peaceful at home yet well connected when needed.”

Historical Information

The owners have been informed by previous residents of the farm that Lord Wellesley, the Duke of Wellington, used Coldblow Farm to house his hunting dogs when he was Lord Warden at nearby Walmer Castle.

In the 1950s an original 19th Century Hooden Horse was discovered and dug up in the front garden. This is on display in Deal Museum.
