Wheelbarrow Cottage

Nestled in the heart of the Isle of Wight countryside, this enchanting Grade II listed three-bedroom detached residence offers a rare opportunity to own a characterful and historic home, formerly serving as the gatehouse to the prestigious Westover Manor. Combining timeless period charm with modern enhancements, this unique property presents the perfect rural retreat, set within approximately 7.36 acres of beautifully maintained grounds.

Originating as a thatched building, the home has been thoughtfully extended to the rear with a substantial extension that features a spacious, naturally lit central hallway illuminated by an overhead roof light. The interior is both inviting and functional, offering three generous double bedrooms, each filled with natural light and pastoral views.

At the heart of the home is a delightful dual-aspect sitting room with a wood-burning stove, creating a cosy ambiance while also providing central heating to the home via a radiator system. French doors open onto an enclosed rear garden, perfect for private outdoor relaxation or entertaining guests.

The property also boasts a spacious kitchen and dining area, complete with a range of fitted wall and base units and dual-aspect windows that capture the beauty of the surrounding landscape. A family bathroom serves the main house, providing comfort and practicality.

This property's grounds are where its true potential shines. With gated access from the main road, as well as an additional drive leading from the entrance of Westover Farm, the home offers excellent privacy and accessibility. The acreage includes a large, picturesque nature pond, a driveway, a detached, pitched roof, timber garage and a wealth of open space suitable for a variety of uses.

Equestrian enthusiasts will appreciate the extensive facilities, including a modern stable block with four large stalls, a tack room, and a machinery area. A large adjoining barn provides a versatile two-storey outbuilding. Currently arranged as a spacious sitting room and kitchen with wood burner, a ground-floor shower room, and an upstairs open plan room enjoying far-reaching views toward Mottistone Down, this barn offers exciting potential for guest accommodation, a home office, or creative studio (subject to necessary consents).

Perfectly situated for lovers of the outdoors, the home enjoys direct access to a network of bridleways and public footpaths, ideal for riding, walking, and exploring the surrounding countryside. Despite its peaceful location, the property remains well-connected to local villages and amenities.

This is a rare and captivating offering—blending character, space, and lifestyle potential in one of the Island's most idyllic settings. Whether you are seeking a forever family home or a property with equestrian or holiday-let appeal, this remarkable residence ticks every box.
